Pair Stare Game: Fry First Hundred

What a fun way to practice and review sight words! I have included four games, each with 25 of the first hundred Fry words. Set one also includes the numbers 1-6, while sets 2 through 4 include six words from the previous list for extra review. Each deck has 30 cards. Six words are on each card. Find the one and only common word on both cards. It's more challenging than you might think! Each card includes a small gray code with which list it is, and each list varies in font and/or color for easier sorting in case they get mixed up!

Print, laminate (optional), and cut along the lines.

Solo Play: Pick two cards. Look at both cards closely until you find the word that is the same on both cards. When you find the pair, put those cards in a stack and take two more.

Two or more players: Each player gets one card (face up). A card from the remaining stack is placed in the center of the table. The first person to see a match gets the card in the center and adds it on top of their previous card. Play continues like this until the deck of cards is empty. The player with the most cards wins.

Alternate way to play with two or more: Each player draws a card face down and then on the count of three flips it over. The first person to spot a pair on any two cards gets those two cards, and any remaining cards get placed in the bottom of the deck.

Whole class play (up to 30 students, with a means to project the card): Each student gets a word from the list. Going through the deck one card at a time, when a student sees their word, they can call it out. Break into teams if you keep score of which team calls out their word first.
